

17 June 1957

Outline for Off-the-Record Talk by the Director of Central Intelligence at an Informal Monthly Luncheon of the Foreign Service Association at Fort McNair, June 20, 1957

- I. Proud to be a member of this Association--brother's diplomatic career began fifty years ago--own, forty-one years ago
- II. Personal experiences with Foreign Service in 1920's--what State Department had to work with then and now
- XIII. Role of CIA in Foreign Policy field
  - A. Supplements collection of foreign information at home as well as abroad
  - B. Integrates departmental thinking
  - C. Provides specialized services
  - D. Contributes to broader basis for policy formation in complicated world situation
- IV. Comments on current world situation
  - A. The disarmament negotiations
  - B. Troubles of China and world Communism: Mao speech and repercussions in Communist world ("Let all flowers bloom together and all schools of thought contend.")
  - C. Meaning of recent riots in Taiwan
  - D. Significance of current Middle Eastern situation (USSR submarines to Egypt)
  - E. Significance of current Caribbean situation

V. Confidence that CIA and the Foreign Service will continue to work together toward solution of current and future problems of foreign policy.

VI. Manpower needs of State Department and of CIA

A. We both need men and women of highest intellectual attainments, moral character, and physical attributes. Intelligence as a career is new. Foreign Service now has three universities in the District training students: Georgetown, George Washington, and now American University. We all work together for our Country.

STANLEY J. CROGAN
Assistant to the Director